

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides improved methods of imaging, targeted therapy and detection and diagnostics using modified glycoprotein hormones having increased activity over wild-type hormones.